

Private Speech Therapy
Services for
Victoria/Vancouver
Island
2025 Directory

(last update: March 2025)

Vancouver Island Speech-Language Pathologists in Private Practice Directory 2025

The Vancouver Island Speech-Language Pathologists in Private Practice is a professional organization of clinicians in Greater Victoria and other Vancouver Island locations. All members of VISLP-PP have the required registration with the College of Speech and Hearing Health Professionals of BC (<https://www.cshbc.ca/>). Registration may be indicated by the credential “Registered Speech-Language Pathologist”, or “RSLP”. Please see individual member listings for other voluntary professional certifications and affiliations.

Speech and language services provided by members include therapy for stuttering, voice problems, articulation, language, swallowing disorders, cognitive-communication problems, and augmentative communication. Help with English as an additional language and foreign accent reduction is also available. Services may include screening, assessment, consultation, treatment, presentations, and workshops. Feel free to make additional copies of this Directory as needed or contact anyone listed in the Directory.

Why choose a private Speech-Language Pathologist?

Private Speech-Language Pathologists offer an alternative to, or may be used in cooperation with, the government-funded Speech-Language Pathology services provided by child development centres, schools, health units, and hospitals.

- Service is accessible to everyone, and there is no waiting list.
- Clients are able to interview and select the therapist of their choice.
- Therapy programs and schedules are flexible and designed to fit clients’ needs.

Are costs covered?

Insurance coverage for speech therapy is included in many extended health insurance policies. The amount of coverage varies depending on the policy and the insurance company. Private speech and language therapy fees are not covered by the Medical Services Plan of British Columbia. Funding for speech and language therapy is available, in some cases, through government programs and private agencies.

For further information about speech and language disorders, services, or funding, feel free to contact any of the members listed in the Directory or visit the websites below.

Email: info@end-dyslexia.com
Website: www.end-dyslexia.com

Background and Services Provided: Does your child have difficulty reading? ACCESS Speech-Language Services helps children with dyslexia and others who are struggling with reading improve their reading and become proficient readers. The programs I use are scientifically proven to bring slow readers up to speed quickly and to improve a child's ability to learn. They start with addressing the root cause of dyslexia and reading challenges. By first improving core auditory processing skills for memory, attention, sequencing and processing speed, I can help your child improve their reading. Many overcome their reading challenges for good and gain reading abilities on a par with his or her peers. Access Speech-Language Services provides highly effective, evidence-based on-line therapy programs to develop language, literacy and cognitive skills. I provide Telehealth services to any location with reliable internet.

Address: 211-2840 Peatt Road, Langford, BC, V9B 3V4

Email: lindy@thecoreslp.ca

Website: <https://www.thecoreslp.ca>

Background and Services Provided: As a play-based, neurodiversity affirming therapist, I have had the pleasure of supporting children and their families in their communication journeys for over 5 years.

I received my Master of Science in Speech-Language Pathology from the University of British Columbia. I am registered with the College of Care and Health Professionals of British Columbia (CHCPBC) and I am a member of Speech-Language and Audiology Canada (SAC). I am on the Registry of Autism Service Providers (RASP).

I am passionate about working with individuals with complex communication needs, Autism Spectrum Disorders, and early language intervention. I offer support and services to children with speech sound differences, language delays or differences, motor speech disorders, fluency disorders, and those who need social communication support. I support children and their families who use total communication approaches or Augmentative and Alternative Communication (AAC).

I have received additional training from:

- Meaningful Speech to help support children who are gestalt language processors
- Dynamic Temporal and Tactile Cueing (DTTC), which is an approach to support children with childhood apraxia of speech
- The Lidcombe Program, an evidence based approach to fluency disorders (stuttering)
- LAMP (Language Acquisition Through Motor Planning) Training, a course outlining best practices supporting Augmentative and Alternative Communication (AAC) users

Additionally, I frequently participate in online webinars and short courses to stay current in the topics of Augmentative and Alternative Communication (AAC) and Autism Spectrum Disorder. I practice neurodiversity-affirming therapy by respecting and valuing the different communication and learning styles that accompany different neurological makeups. I believe in constant collaboration with families to build realistic, functional communication goals and trusting relationships. I am passionate about play-based therapy, and I look forward to learning and having fun with you and your child!
